

On the 25th and 26th March 2015, Paragon Europe Ltd held a two day conference called Malta Water Week which brought over specialists from various countries to discuss the challenge of managing one of our most critical resources - water. This conference comprised a main plenary session with various workshops running in parallel focusing on the specific themes and issues identified in the main plenary session. eBusiness Systems provided a remote video conference support through the operation of EB-Live. During the conference remote users were able to view and listen to the whole conference online. In this context, the main session was provided as a webinar, allowing for full coverage of speakers but with limited interventions by remote participants. On the other hand, the parallel workshop sessions were organised as on-line workshops with live video conferencing facilities allowing remote participants to engage actively in the debate and discussions. The eBS team was involved in documenting this two day event with full video coverage and subsequently produced the required promo and full length video presentations. Using sophisticated video capture and editing software and specialised video equipment, the eBS videography team demonstrated their technique and expertise. This project demonstrated the flexibility and competence of the eBS team to deal not only with high quality eLearning content, but also providing support to top international conference organisers seeking to get greater involvement from remote participants.
